

MISSION

With the use of technology, meteorologists can forecast the weather days and even weeks in advance. Yet nothing is certain. One minute you are on a hike enjoying the sunny day and the next minute the sky is dark, the temperature has dropped 10 degrees, heavy winds are stirring and it is pouring rain. The key is that you must always be ready for storms brewing in nature. By taking or making cover in this Quest, you can earn yourself a solar shield, a water reserve, a secret tunnel or sandbags for use at any time during future Quests.

→ Venture on a hike or play in nature imagining a weather condition.

? How long do you have to prepare for the weather condition?

? What effects might the weather condition have on you and the other players?

? What type of protection would you need from the weather condition?

? How/where might you find this type of protection?

→ Complete the Quest.
